International Squash Court

Raising Sport to a New Level

The Trent Community Sport & Recreation Centre houses a brand new competitive international squash court, in addition to two revitalized North American courts.

The new international squash court, measuring 32 feet long and 21 feet wide – two feet wider than the existing North American courts, provides members with the opportunity to play on a regulation international court.

The sport of squash has evolved over the years, with the international court emerging as the court-of-choice used around the world for competitive play. This new facility at Trent enables members of the community and the University to play, train or learn on an internationally recognized court.

In addition to adding a new international court, refreshing and revitalizing the two North American squash courts at Trent stimulates participation in the sport for all ages and helps to draw competitive and recreational squash players alike to hone their skills, develop new strategies and experience the sport in an athletics centre unlike any other.

Internationally-recognized.
New opportunities. Competitive edge.
