

Canada Reimagined

Canadian Studies. Trent. You.

 Explore www.trentu.ca/canadianstudies

In Canadian Studies courses, we ask from every angle:

What makes Canadians tick? What does the future hold for the great Canadian experiment? What is Canada's role in a changing world? What does this country mean to you? Who speaks for Canada? Where is here? Who do you think you are? Whose country is it anyway?

In addition, our students get to take courses across the University to come up with dynamic and exciting ideas about what Canada was, is, and can become. You can combine Geography with History, English with Sociology, Environmental Studies with Indigenous Studies, or all of the above!

Why Trent?

- Select from more than 20 interdisciplinary programs and 70 optional courses
- Work with community groups on meaningful research projects that make a difference
- Take your learning out of the classroom in field trips to other cities
- Engage in small group learning through lectures, seminars, workshops, and special events
- Join us on student retreats to our conference centre Windy Pine in Haliburton, Ontario
- See Canada from another perspective with a one-year North American exchange program, workshops and group learning

Degree Opportunities

B.A. in Canadian Studies (Honours)

B.A. in Canadian Studies (General)

Diploma in Canadian Studies (one year)

Joint degrees with more than 20 Trent departments

Career Conscious

The Canadian Studies Program is an excellent preparation for careers in areas such as education, research, editing, arts and culture, communications, journalism, media, law, government, public affairs, public policy analysis, diplomatic service, labour relations and community planning and development.

