

The Department of History and the Frost Centre for Canadian Studies at Trent University present

The 2009 WL Morton Lecture

ALWAYS LOOK ON THE BRIGHT SIDE OF STRIFE

Humour and the Canadian Great War Soldier

November 18, 2009

5 p.m.

Trent University

Symons Campus

DNA Building, B110

This lecture was named in honour of W.L. Morton, the Canadian historian and former Master of Trent's Champlain College.

To view this document in an accessible format, please visit www.trentu.ca

Dr. Tim Cook

Trent alumnus Dr. Cook is the First World War historian at the Canadian War Museum and an Adjunct Research Professor at Carleton. His new book, The Madman and the Butcher: Sir Sam Hughes, Sir Arthur Currie, and their War of Reputations, will be published in 2010.

He is a frequent commentator in the media and lives in Ottawa with his wife and three daughters.

