CAMPUS EXPANSION & DEVELOPMENT

Trent University Durham's modern Thornton Road Campus may only be five years old, but the University's presence in the Durham Region goes back four decades. Since 1974, Trent University Durham has been granting degrees in the region.

The University has exciting plans for future development and expansion. With dynamic new academic programs being added each year, and plans to grow our student body to 2,500, plans are underway to create beautiful new spaces and state-of-the-art facilities for Trent University Durham students.

Working with the city, the community, and our students, discussions and plans are underway to expand our campus on Thornton Road. We are exploring adding new lab spaces and lecture halls, a student centre, academic offices, on-campus residence, and more. It's an exciting time to be a student at Trent University Durham!

Community Impact

At Trent University Durham, we are proud to be part of and to give back to the Durham community. One of the many ways we do this is through our new HUMANITIES 101 program. Launched in 2014, Humanities 101 is a free, 10-week non-credit community-based outreach program designed to provide access to higher education to those in the Durham Region who might face barriers – financial or otherwise – and provide the community with opportunities for lifelong learning.

"The 'New Durham' is an exciting place to be a student in 2016. Located in the Eastern GTA with easy access by car, bus and GO train, Trent University Durham provides a quality education in a student-friendly environment."

Joe Muldoon, head,
Trent University Durham

A REGION BRIMMING WITH BIG IDEAS

New infrastructure, a thriving downtown, world-class graduates, and a growing population – it's no wonder the City of Oshawa was recognized in 2015 as a Top 10 Small City of the Future.* In 2014, Oshawa was also ranked fourth among major Canadian cities for its entrepreneurial policy by the Canadian Federation of Independent Business. The Region of Durham is an exciting and dynamic place to live and learn.

Want to live your education in a global way? Trent offers a wide-range of study abroad options that will allow you to internationalize your degree.

STUDY ABROAD AND CHANGE YOUR WORLDVIEW

Study abroad opportunities are available in every program and major. Choose from:

Exchange Program

Trent's partnerships with universities around the world make it very easy for you to study abroad through an exchange program, which swaps two students – you spend a semester or year abroad in a chosen country and a student from that country comes to Trent. If our exchange program doesn't offer the destination you want, we will help you set up a personalized study abroad at the school of your choice.

Department Year Abroad

Some of Trent's departments offer their own programs for you to take your classes overseas and on-location, so you can experience firsthand what you're studying. Enroll in one of Trent's field schools in Belize, or try a field course in Taiwan.

International Internship

You can gain international knowledge and cultural insight, all while having a once-in-a-lifetime experience working overseas. Whether it's for a couple of months or a year, Trent can get you there.

Summer Abroad

If you're looking to go abroad for a summer, Trent will give you credit for it. You can have the same international experience in between academic years.

Volunteer Abroad

You will learn a lot at Trent. We can help you turn your knowledge into action on the international stage through a volunteer opportunity in the country of your choice.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The Trent Business Advantage

At Trent, we recognize the integral role innovative and creative thinking plays in the world of business. That's why our popular Business Program offers all the advantages of a traditional Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA) and more.

Trent's BBA focuses on economics, management and entrepreneurship. We are also the only university in Canada to offer a wide range of joint majors in Business Administration, allowing you to combine business courses with other areas of interest. The Trent advantage allows you to combine your passions and interests and cross boundaries, no matter which program or major you are interested in.

"At Trent I wasn't just a passive recipient of knowledge, but rather a co-creator of my own intellectual capacity."

Don Tapscott '66, Trent University chancellor, alumnus, bestselling author and one of the world's top five business thinkers

Child and Youth Studies/Care (B.A.)*

A unique new interdisciplinary degree program, Child and Youth Studies/Care focuses on how children and youth learn through play. With a strong foundation in sociology and psychology, this degree inspires students to think about child and youth development through the eyes of a child. You will learn about child and youth rights and legal issues, and how children develop emotionally, socially, intellectually and physically. You will also gain a deep understanding of how to apply playful pedagogies for learning, especially in the areas of math and language. The program also has a rich focus on creative engagement, theatre and the arts. Choose from two degree options: (1) a four-year honours degree in Child and Youth Studies, which includes a placement course and provides graduates with the option to directly access Trent's B.Ed. program through a limited number of reserved spaces; or (2) a general degree in Child and Youth Care, offered in collaboration with Durham College, through which you will receive a three-year Trent University general degree and a two-year Child and Youth Worker (CYW) diploma from Durham College. As a graduate of either degree, you will find success working in a variety of areas, including residential treatment centers, school boards, community programs, hospitals, and Children's Aid Societies

"Because we have small class sizes at Trent University Durham, we get a unique opportunity to engage students through demonstrations and interacting. It isn't a professor standing up at the front of class just lecturing, students get the opportunity to apply what they are learning to their everyday life."

Dr. Nancie Im-Bolter, associate professor, Psychology

History (B.A.)

As a student studying History at Trent, you will have the opportunity to engage with award-winning historians and an array of global specialties including: Europe, Canada, US, Russia, Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Latin America, and world expansion, from the Middle Ages to the 21st Century. You will develop exceptional research and communication skills that can be applied across many career options.

Why Trent?

- Benefit from small group discussion seminars taught by award-winning faculty
- Choose courses thematically, such as the Holocaust, incarceration, the Vietnam War or the family and sexuality, or by time period and location, such as the modern Middle East, Africa, Pre-Confederation Canada, or medieval Europe
- Spend a year studying abroad at one of many partner universities around the world, or in Peterborough studying Museum Management
- Transfer Pathways available from Durham College, Fleming College and Seneca College.

Human Resources Management – Postgraduate Certificate

While studying Human Resource Management (HRM) at Trent, students will consider not just what organizations do, but what human resources should do, and why. It is an experience where we seek to develop the HR thinkers of the future, helping to lead the organizations of the future. The program approaches the topic of Human Resource Management – understanding how to attract and manage employees in today's organizations – from a balanced perspective, weighing the needs of both employers and employees. This intensive postgraduate certificate program includes 11 half-year courses in Human Resources, Accounting, and Economics, which make up the course requirements for the CHRP designation once candidates pass the Human Resources Professional Association (HRPA) National Knowledge Exam.™ The program may be completed in one year of full-time studies, or in two or more years through part-time studies.

Media Studies (B.A.)

NEW Drawing from courses in Anthropology and Cultural Studies to Business Administration and Computer and Information Studies, you will study complex questions about society and the media through an interdisciplinary lens. You will explore the ways in which information in the digital age is consumed, lived, and organized, and how contemporary media environments differ from those in the past. Your studies will include research on media institutions, the depiction of women, theories of ideology, and so on, but you will also study how the media shapes our world by engaging in critical media practices – you will make memes, bend circuits, shoot films, deliver radio broadcasts, use a 3D printer, and more.

Why Trent?

- Study an interdisciplinary curriculum, with a practical and theoretical emphasis on new media
- Develop skills in communications, critical and analytical thinking, and ethical practice
- Gain in-depth knowledge of how the media works and the communication skills needed to use it effectively
- Transfer Pathways available from Durham College.

Psychology (B.A. or B.Sc.)

Psychology is defined as the scientific study of behaviour and the mind. You will study the principles of behaviour through lectures, labs, seminars and research. Opportunities for participation in ongoing faculty research include areas such as sleep, dreams, sexuality, anxiety, emotional intelligence, health, learned resourcefulness, language impairment, attachment, development, personality, cross-cultural psychology, perception and memory. You will acquire both research skills and a broadly-based background in the basic content of the discipline, combined with the opportunity at upper levels to focus on more specialized topics.

Why Trent?

- Connect with renowned faculty in many areas of specialization and get involved in their research
- Develop your problem solving, inter-personal relations and critical thinking while learning to understand, interpret and evaluate research
- Undertake an undergraduate independent research thesis or research practicum supervised by award-winning faculty
- Transfer Pathways available from Durham College, Fleming College and Seneca College.

Bachelor of Social Work (B.S.W.)

The challenging field of Social Work provides essential supports to communities by helping its individuals, groups, and families meet their basic human needs while simultaneously working towards creating the conditions necessary for social change and equality. Through an interdisciplinary curriculum grounded in social justice, human rights, and cultural awareness, you will develop a strong foundation of clinical knowledge, critical thinking skills, and social responsibility. Students must apply to enter into the professional years in year 3. Admission will be limited and offered on a competitive process. The professional years (years 3 and 4) will focus exclusively on social work theory and practice, including more than 700 hours of supervised placement.

Why Trent?

- Emphasis on social justice and social action
- Development of leadership skills for the non-profit sector
- Social work as a political act
- Our motto: Passionate; practical, prepared and professional

Sociology (B.A.)

Sociology is the study of society and the processes and patterns of social relations that influence our everyday world. Rooted in the social sciences and inspired by a passion for social justice, this program engages students in understanding and acting on the consequences of social change. You will explore and question diverse cultures, social experiences, dynamics of power and inequality, and global changes that forge relations between individuals, groups, institutions and societies. Through a broad range of courses you will complete your studies with a heightened understanding of human relationships and society. A sociology degree is an excellent foundation for law school, teachers college, social work or similar programs.

Why Trent?

- Study in small group settings with award-winning faculty
- Engage in experiential learning opportunities and conduct community-based research projects with local agencies
- Spend a year abroad studying at one of many partner universities around the world

Teacher Education Stream (B.A. or B.Sc.)

This program provides students with a strong foundation for application to a consecutive teacher education program, and ultimately the teaching profession. It is taken concurrently with an Honours B.A. or B.Sc. degree. Students gain practical and theoretical knowledge through course work, participation in two workshops per year on current issues in education, and 75 hours (over four years) of experiential placements. Each year, a number of spaces in the Trent Consecutive Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) program are reserved for graduates of this Teacher Education Stream.

Why Trent?

- Although completion of the Teacher Education Stream (TES) program does not guarantee admission to the B.Ed. program, the TES provides an outstanding foundation for a later application to the B.Ed., and is recommended as the best pathway to take at Trent for those undergraduate students who know they want to become teachers.
- Workshops linked to the priorities of Ontario curriculum guidelines, including environmental education, Indigenous knowledge, and social justice themes; The Impact Leadership Program and Penpals also support an enriched Trent experience.
- Meets and exceeds the course requirements for applying to the B.Ed. program.
