

Online Graduate Elective

Open to all Trent
University Master's and
Ph.D. students!

TRENT CENTRE FOR AGING & SOCIETY

Looking for a Graduate Elective this Fall?

Enroll in *Foundations in Interdisciplinary
Aging Studies – CSAS 5000H*

This course, instructed by Award-Winning Professor Emeritus Dr. Stephen Katz, will offer you a valuable opportunity to explore your research from a new perspective.

"CSAS 5000H is an opportunity for graduate students to add 'aging' to their program of study and re-imagine their research projects. This interdisciplinary course introduces students to social gerontology, population aging, retirement, intergenerational relations, healthcare and social support, that stem from critical approaches in sociological, professional, humanities, feminist and cultural research."

- Dr. Stephen Katz, Course Instructor

"This course encompassed everything I was looking for in my graduate learning. The intimate class size enabled students and professionals to interact personally. I expanded my boundaries of academic thought for a greater appreciation of the cultural and societal impacts of aging. Overall, it inspired a new research interest and shaped my future career and academic endeavours."

-Linnea Veloce, M.Sc., Psychology,
Course Alumnus

For more information, please contact:

Dr. Elizabeth McCrillis, Director, Trent Centre for Aging & Society
elizabethmccrillis@trentu.ca
Dr. Stephen Katz, Course Instructor
skatz@trentu.ca

Note: Course scheduling is flexible.